On behalf of the journal, AGU, and the broader scientific community, the editors of Water Resources Research (WRR) sincerely thank all those who reviewed manuscripts for the journal in 2025.

Your dedication in carefully reading and commenting on submissions maintains and enhances the high quality of WRR papers. Through these efforts, you help shape the field and strengthen the scientific rigor and impact of both current and future research. This year, the Special Collection celebrating the 60th Anniversary of WRR highlights the diversity, relevance, and significance of research published in the journal, reflecting your contributions to advancing understanding of the role of water in the Earth system across hydrology and the broader natural, engineering, and social water sciences.

In 2025, the journal again experienced an increase in the number of submissions. The 3,266 individuals listed below contributed 5,486 peer reviews to support the rigorous evaluation of these manuscripts, with the 475 reviewers indicated in italics completing three or more reviews. The Editors, Associate Editors and Authors of WRR deeply appreciate the contributions of our reviewers and look forward to the exciting advances that will be published in WRR in 2026.

*Individuals in italics provided three or more reviews for Water Resources Research (WRR) during the year.
